Eight provincial premiers and leaders of two other provincial delegations in turn laid down proposals involving hundreds of millions in new federal spending.

To Pearson's one con-

Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec bluntly termed federal housing policy an intervention in provincial jurisdiction. He said Quebec and Ottawa have come to a satisfactory compromise on existing legislation and his province would opt out of any future federal programs.

The provinces agreed unanimously with Pearson's suggestion that sessions remain open to the press today and Wednesday, a departure from federal-provincial cus-tom that is being closely assessed by both sides.

Several premiers said they delegate housing needs as their utmost priority and begged the federal government to spare programs in these areas from its current budget restraints.

Premier John Robarts of Ontario said a "sustained and adequate flow of federal financing is crucial to success of our whole attack on housing problems."

Ontario alone would need $400,000,000 next year from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. The federal agency is lending $950,000,000

B.C. STARTS BLITZ ON HOMES CRISIS

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Establishment of a central housing authority, involving all three levels of government, to attack the acute housing crisis in B.C. was announced Monday by the provincial government.

The new body, to be known as the British Columbia Housing Management Commission, will have four members, two federal and two provincial, with a fifth local representative being added from time to

The cabinet order-in-council, signed Friday but only released Monday, refers specifically to public housing, but broad terms of reference are expected to allow the commission to extend its activities.

Liberals Win Vote Despite Defection

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government Monday defeated 111-95 a Conservative non-confidence motion in the recent minibudget despite the defection of Ontario Liberal MP John Addison. The motion was also supported by 73 Tories, 18 New Democrats, two Socreds and one Creditiste, and opposed by 110 Liberals and one independent.

In a speech that spilled with ideas. Robichaud kaid down a string of suggested amend-ments to federal legislation making more money available on easier terms for a wider range of purposes. One new concept was "shell and post-ponement housing" that occu-pants could finish as financial circumstances permit.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell of British Columbia, standing in for Premier Bennett, openly conceded that the federal program of urban renewal and winter works are being mis-

He also recommended a federal-provincial partnership to provide cash incentives to purchasers of new homes. B.C. began a plan of its own this year which has paid 17,000 home-buyers $500 each.

Campbell's view was given during discussion when two tern premiers turned a cold shoulder to Pearson's suggestion for a national council on housing and urban development.

Please send me, without obligation, a free copy of the booklet: "Annuities...the key to a golden age." There comes a time in most men's lives when a guaranteed income is more important than the hope of capital gain. And that's exactly what annuities from Manufacturers Life offer. They provide an automatic, guaranteed income for life. People have asked us many questions about annuities in the past. Important questions such as: Can I arrange for some of the money to be returned to my estate if I die early? Is there an annuity that will transfer the income to my wife if she outlives me? How do annuities affect my income tax? Is an annuity a practical way of supplementing Canada Pension Plan and To provide you with the answers we have published an easy-to-read, easy-to-understand booklet called "Annuities . . . the key to a golden age." It's yours for the asking, without obligation. Just fill in and return the coupon above. And if you would like to discuss annuities with someone, you couldn't find a better person to talk to than the Man from Manufacturers. VICTORIA

Peace-Makers' Hope

AS DEFENCE AND foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty nations meet in Brussels the prospect of decision on two major policy suggestions emerges: first, that France will oppose and probably defeat a proposal that the alliance make a co-ordinated peace approach to the Soviet Union; second, that military establishments will be reduced in Europe.

France, it seems, resists the suggestion of a joint effort to win the confidence and co-operation of the Russians in Europe for reason that United States domination in such an intercourse is feared.

This objection might be over-ridden were it not for the fact that West Germany, for rather different reasons, is not enthusiastic.

The positions of the nations will be clarified during the next several days of conference.

But the reduction of military forces by the NATO allies, or at least a partial redeployment, seems very Both the United States and Great Britain have indicated their intentions in this respect.

For the British it is an almost inevitable decision. For one thing, the enormous cost of maintaining a British contingent of more than 50,000 men in West German bases is something the government can no longer afford, particularly in view of the recent devaluation of the pound. Britain hopes to trim substantially the $230,000,000 yearly cost of its par-

The United States, with more than 225,000 men on the NATO front line, at an annual cost of over $800,000,000, and in view of its commitments in Vietnam, is anxious to effect economies in an area where, most authorities agree, a violent confrontation is increasingly improbable.

West Germany, too, wants to trim NATO

It was the vast Soviet expansion after the Second World War and immediately preceding it, and the fear that Moscow would try to expand farther west-ward which brought about the NATO alliance. The western powers were justifiably concerned when they studied the expansionist picture: Finnish territory had been seized, and the Russian fear had firmly estab-lished itself in Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, East Poland, Ruthenia, Bessarabia, Bukovina and East Prussia. Russia controlled other large territories, Polish, German, Czech, Hungarian and the rest. But a year ago today the consensus in NATO was that the substantial political changes in Europe had largely reduced the nature of the Soviet military threat. The way was open, it was felt, for a major West-East peace offensive.

In August of 1966, the West German defence minister, Col. Kai-Uwe von Hassel, told the Canadian government a surprise attack from any one or all the Warsaw Pact countries "is not to be feared in the near future." For some time Canada has shown interest in the theory that NATO might be used as an instrument to break down barriers between East and West to the point where both the military alliances could be Even if France succeeds in discouraging the coordinated approach by NATO to the Warsaw Pact countries, the withdrawal of western forces from the close contact bases in Europe could have a salutary effect. It could lead to response from the East and an ultimately drastic and reciprocal reduction on both sides as each demonstrates its pacific intention. The Brussels conference, therefore, will be watched hopefully by the peace-makers.

Hospital Planning

BY ACCUSING "civic leaders" of killing the hospital district referendum of two years ago in the Victoria region, Mr. Courtney Haddock earned himself the sharp rejoinder that came from Mayor Hugh Stephen. But it will not be a common recollection that-so the mayor says-"the public's reaction reflected a deep and well-merited mistrust of the efficiency of the hospital community itself, and an unwillingness to entrust them with millions of public monies until they had set their own house in order."

Reviewing the public debate that preceded the vote on the plan to levy a uniform two-mill tax throughout the district to raise money for a $13,-500,000 hospital construction program, one finds that the opposition to it was almost entirely based on the cost-sharing between the province and the local property owners: the cry was that the provincial government should bear a larger portion of the cost. It seemed entirely clear at the time that this was the reason for the electors' rejection of the proposal.

It hardly appears fair therefore to blame either the "hospital community" for the adverse vote or "civic leaders"—especially when city council, while unhappy about the financing, called for acceptance of Recriminations apart, however, Mr. Haddock's impatience to get on with hospital expansion is understandable. The need of more accommodation was described as acute two years ago. There were then 1.600 persons on waiting lists for non-emergency surgery at the two major hospitals; today 2,000 elective cases and 750 urgent cases are said to be waiting.

But as Mayor Stephen says, when such interrelated services as acute care, rehabilitation care, convalescent care, chronic care, boarding home care, home care, outpatient care, mental health care and training have to be taken into consideration, the planning of new facilities is a complex problem, and the study of the needs is well undertaken by expert and independent consultants. The public will indeed want its money spent with as much efficiency as possible. It is difficult to believe, moreover, that relief from the hospital bed shortage will still be as far away as Mr. Haddock pessimistically forecasts, after the consultants' report is received. "We can't sit and wait five years," he says. The people of the region will undoubtedly share this view, but in the expectation of considerably quicker progress.

U.S. Gears for Landmark Election

By JOSEPH KRAFT From Washington

Governor Ronals Reagan of California is a performer skilled in handling the relatively fixed format of press conference and the TV interview. So why does he go to Yale and expose himself to who knows what from a bunch of smarty-pants kids?

George Wallace, the former governor of Alabama, is a wifted performer with a special feel for the dark places of the folk mind. So why does he kick off his current California campaign with an appearance at the ul tra-conservative Common-wealth Club of San Francisco?

* * * The answer, I think, lies along the lines of Shakespeare's theory that freak indicators — the sheeted dead in the street and that kind of thing — herald great events. As it happens, there is still a third freak indicator which suggests that the U.S. is approaching a landmark election, an election apt to change the national political pattern for years to come.

The indicator in question is a Gallup poll on political affiliation. It shows a large, and growing, gap between ordinary people and the two political parties.

Of the adult population, the number of Democrats — 42 per cent — is at the lowest point since 1940, Barely more than a quarter of the elector ate -- 27 per cent -- think of themselves as Republicans. The number of independents is at an all-time high - 31 per

But the drift towards the independents is too large and steady to be explained merely by temporary discontents. The more so as it dovetails with the strange doings of Ronald Reagan and George Wallace.

The basic fact, I think, is that neither of the parties is in harmoney with a large and growing number of Americans. Both parties are still dominated by the issue shaped in the last great landmark election — the Issue of economic security shaped in Democrats are still chiefly the party ready to use federal powers and funds to maintain economic security. The Republicans are still mainly a party dedicated to holding down federal powers and spending.

But for all those people who are going independent, for the young, the college educated, the new middle class, economic security is no longer an What is an issue, what has not supposed to go with economic security.

The barrier against case is composed of a great many different and complicated things — crime: congested traffic; overcrowded schools; high interest rates: kids smoking pot. But psychologically, and for shorthand politi-cal purposes, all these things That issue is the place of the Negro in America — the issue

But in the long run the vacuum will have to be filled by those traditional staples of American politics — the par-ties. And that is where the impending time of big events comes in.

up the new issue and continue as the dominant party. But to do that they will have to unburden their party of its present leadership.

As to the Republicans, if they fail to pick up the new issue, they will probably follow their forerunners down the path to oblivion.

If they grasp the opportunity, they can make the definitive comeback which eluded them under President Eisenhower. They can become the majority party again for

New Impala Coupes: with fastback or formal rooflines.

A great idea! Two different rooflines for Impala Coupes...from Chevrolet by design. Some Impala buyers want the spirit-stirring excitement of the fastback look. The Impala Sport Coupe is just for them. Other Impala buyers want the town car sophistication of a formal roofline. The Impala Custom Coupe is just for them.

Whichever style you choose, you'll come out way ahead with Chevrolet's 1968 out-in-front features such as:

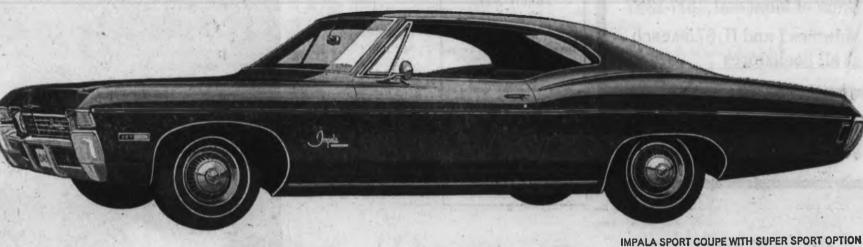

Chevrolet's quietest ride ever, Smoother riding, too, with newly engineered springs and shocks. Computers have been utilized to place body and engine mounts at precisely the right spots to keep road vibrations away from you.

Chevrolet offers you even better performance for '68. The standard V8 is a bigger 307-cu.-in. engine. And the new optional 250 horsepower V8 runs on regular fuel.

Chevrolet has more that's new all around. Hide-A-Way windshield wipers have an articulating left blade that sweeps a greater windshield area. An Ignition Alarm System buzzes a reminder not to leave your key in the ignition when you leave your car. And there's more...much more that's new inside and outside on Chevrolet for '68. Chevrolet's got it by design.

How to turn out Holiday feasts with a difference.

All eyes are on the Cook at holiday time—so why not take advantage? Boost your reputation as a "Creative Cook" to new heights with these tasty, fresh ideas from Swift.

Continental Cranberry Dressing for Butterball Swift's Premium Turkey

Start with a Butterball Swift's Premium Turkey . . . the very special turkey that's been bred and fed to be wishbone-deep in juicy, tender meat. Then stuff with this new Christmas dressing.

Combine 2 cups chopped fresh cranberries, ½ cup sugar and 1 cup chopped pecans. Add to your regular dressing (Ingredients here are for 10-12 lb. turkey. For 18-20 lb. bird increase by half.)

Hot Cranberry Glaze for Swift's Premium Ham

Take a Swift's Premium Ham... the tastiest, precooked ham ever to grace a festive table. A Swift's Premium Ham is deep sugar-cured and slow-smoked to make it worthy of the most elaborate glaze.

To one can of jellied cranberry sauce, add ½ cup dark corn syrup and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Cook over low heat until sauce melts and amooths. Glaze ham.

Lemon-Herb Glaze for "open face" sandwiches

Dazzle 'em with a Swift's Premium Cold Meat platter. Swift's make 33 varieties of cold meats . . . all sliced and vacuum-sealed in 27 seconds. So they're FRESH! And always impressive . . . especially served in "open faces" with this unique glaze.

Dissolve 1 pkg. lemon-flavoured galatin in 13/3 cups boiling water. Add 1/2 teaspoon dill weed and 3 tablespoons vinegar. Chill until thickened. Pour over "open face" sandwiches. Chill until firm.

Swill's Premium, Swill's and Butterball are registered trade marks of Swill Canadian Co., Limited

This emergency call sought police to arrest a drunk pickpocket

Other emergency calls to B.C. Telephone Company operators may be for less arresting reason. But all are handled efficiently by well-trained girls like Joan Banwell.

A drunk pickpocket. The thought of it brought a smile to Joan Banwell's face as she walked to her switchboard position. "What next?" she wondered aloud.

What next? Well, how about the woman whose stove was sparking when she had to get the turkey on for supper guests? Or the gentleman who wouldn't pay for his car wash? Or the two men locked in

No wonder Joan wondered.

She was just taking up her position as a long-distance telephone operator in the toll centre at the Vancouver headquarters of the British Columbia Telephone Company.

150 Emergency Calls Dail

Sometime during her seven-hour shift, she probably would handle an emergency call. More than 150 such calls come through the toll centre every day and at least one was likely to find its way to her position between the regular calls she'd place.

Maybe it would be routine. Get the police to break up a family quarrel. Call an ambulance for a maternity case. Report traffic lights out of order.

Or maybe someone would find another drunk pickpocket and call "Operator" for assistance, just as the man at the pizza

> COURSES COST NEARLY $500,000

Preparing operators for the unexpected is part of the four-week training program conducted by B.C. Tel for each group of new additions to the operating staff, whether it is in Vancouver, Victoria, Prince George or anywhere else. Operator training, including the cost of paying full wages to each trainee during the instruction period,

shop had done the night before.

A telephone operator like Joan Banwell can never be sure just what to expect next when she flips the key and answers "Operator."

It might be a customer who wants to reach someone person-to-person in Toronto or Tokyo or Toledo. Or, like the day before, it might be someone calling about a sparking stove, or a car wash villain or a bathroom emergency.

Prepared For The Unexpected

Whatever it is, Mrs. Banwell and the other 1,700 telephone operators in B.C. Telephone's system are prepared to deal with it—to call the appropriate police, fire or ambulance station, the hydro service or where ever necessary.

Joan Banwell-or, more formally since her recent marriage, Mrs. Michael Banwell -underwent her company training course along with four other girls soon after she came to Vancouver from Edmonton, where she was born and raised and where she went through high school.

Today at 20, she has behind her more than a year's experience in the Vancouver toll centre, where as many as 200 other operators are at work at peak traffic times.

Joys, Anxieties Shared

She's placed thousands of calls to thousands of places across the continent and around the world and in doing so she's occasionally shared a little-with those who just have to tell someone in a hurry—the joys of a new addition to a family or a daughter's

She has shared, too, a little of the anxiety of a mother almost frantic while she awaits an ambulance called for an injured child and a little of the grief borne by some of those who must report bad news.

She's acquired a host of friends, some of them just voices at the other end of the telephone line, but many of them fellow telephone people met during coffee breaks in the operators' lounge or during staff social activities.

She and her fellow operators keep the line open around the clock, always ready to assist the telephone caller, whether to place a call or to handle an emergency.

There's an emergency call on the line now. "That dog reported stolen?" the caller said, "he's come home." And Joan Banwell relayed the message to the same police centre to which another operator a few hours before had reported the original call.

We agree with Datsun. You have enough to do gathering in the groceries and keeping the kiddies tucked quietly into their seat belts, without having to change gears as well.

That's why we're pleased to offer this Datsun 1600 Automatic. Into its budget price, it packs more features to gladden your feminine heart than any car we've ever known.

It's really smart. Nice lines, Lovely colours. The steering is light and positive. (You can park it in a teacup.) It has a fullflow air circulation system that works with the windows closed. The car never gets stuffy and your hairdo never blows awry. On cold days, the heater quickly clears all the windows to give you excellent vision.

For safety, there's an impact absorbing body, brakes borrowed from the best racing cars, back-up lights and, because children often ride in the rear seat, Datsun padded the backs of the front seats too.

The ride is velvet. All wheels are independently sprung. Also Datsun hinged the rear axle in the middle so that both wheels stay on the ground when you take a corner. You'll have new confidence when the roads are icy or rain-slicked.

But, best of all the Datsun 1600 isn't one of those timid small car automatics with no go. It has a big 96 h.p. engine that will crutse you at twenty in traffic or move you at better than ninety miles an hour. It's smooth and zippy in every gear.

Oh, and one more thing. Expect one hundred thousand mile reliability. That's been built-in too.

Drive at Datsun - then decide!

Russians Protest Delay

BOSCOW (AP) - More than 100 Moscow intellectuals have accused Russian authorities of law violations in delaying the trial of four young Russians charged with spreading anti-So-vies propaganda, informed sources said Monday.

The accusations of delays were apparently made weeks before a sudden and unexplained postponement Monday of the opening of the trial.

In a letter to Soviet authorities, the intellectuals charged that the law was violated when the four were held in prison more than nine months for a pre-trial investigation, the sources said.

The letter also charged that legal procedures were violated when the trial did not take place within two weeks from the end of the investigation, which the letter said was Oct. 26.

The sources also said leaflets were distributed at Moscow University by unidentified persons during the weekend urging stu-dents to demonstrate support for the four defendants by attending the trials at a downtown Moscow city court.

At least one witness plus fam-flies and friends of the defendands came to the court building only to find the trial was postponed. They could get no information when it would take

Tidal Land Rights Ebb from States

WASHINGTON (UPI)-The Supreme Court, reversing a Washington state court ruling, Monday decided property rights in tidewater lands built up by deposits from the sea over the years are governed by U.S. law, not state law. The court also declared unconstitutional a section of U.S. law that bars members of Communist-action groups from working in defence plants.

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes a re gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion daylong beauty. Great news for anyone who believes in competition, wants faster freight service, can't stand red tape, battles distribution costs, cherishes free enterprise, gets excited by technological progress, thinks time is money, or works for one of our railroads.

Merger approved for GN, NP, CB&Q, SP&S.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved the merger of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroads. When merged, this modern distribution network will bring new speed, efficiency and flexibility to the movement of goods between the Midwest and the Pacific Northwest.

That's great news for just about everybody.

For shippers: Single-line service advantages, more cars, more special equipment, improved schedules and car utilization, better routing options, wider transit and diversion privileges.

These and even more benefits will come from consolidation. Capital generated by greater efficiencies will be used to implement a new philosophy of distribution. Management techniques unencumbered by tradition will match the needs of this growing area.

For the public: A stimulus for free enterprise through a more competitive distribution system that helps keep down the cost of living.

For our employees: Liberal job protection, and increased opportunities for development with the merger-strengthened railroad.

That's the great news. A merger that will provide a competitivelybalanced, rail-centered distribution system to help speed the development of 17 important states.

By BRUCE LOWTHER PEOPLE AND PROGRAMS: Here's how far Presient Johnson's stock has fallen. The normally-chicken U.S. networks found the courage this month to reject as LBJ request for a free half-hour so Hubbert Humphrey could report on his Vietnam trip. The network's official reason: Revenues are down and a revenue show reason: Revenues are down and a revenue show would have had to go.

Good news: Incurred Sillman, whose New Faces of 1963 . . . A column in Variety conveys the following item, carried in its entirety: "Alan Young has turned his back on show bis to become a Christian Science practitioner at Laguna Beach, Calif." Young is the Vancouver-born star of Mr. Ed.

BUREAU OF USE-LESS INFORMATION: Saturday's mailtary answer-Leslie Howard played The Scarlet Pimpermet in Alexander Korda's 1930s movie, Merie Oberon was his wife and Raymond Massey was the chief villain. The hero was Sir Percy Blakeney, villain Citizen Chauvelin, author Baroness Orczy and rhyme: "We seek him Those Frenchies seek him everywhere. Is he in heaven? Is he in hell?
That demned elusive
Pimpernel!"
Today's question is for the (captoon) block for the (cartoon) birds. What kinds of feathered friends are Woody. horn Leghorn and Heckle and Jeckie? An-

The Bitter Hammer Ashamed Aftermath Of New Council

PORT ALBERNI - Mayor Les Hammer ended his civic career with a slashing attack on the aldermen elected by votors Saturday.

He said 'his opinion of the amalgamated city's first elected council was so low he is glad the voters shoved him out of civic politics. He described the new aldernon as "rabble-rousers." Mayor Hammer said their programs -were "negligible."

The Christmas Rose

By M. V. CHESNUT

The Christmas Rose, which is not a rose at all but a member of the butteroup family, is now sending up flowering shoots, and buds are beginning to appear. This plant is outstandingly hardy and will bloom even when the roots are covered by several inches of snow, but if you want clean, unmarked flowers for cutting, some protection from rain, wind and mud-eplashing should be arranged.

Nothing elaborate is needed. The protection may take the form of cloches, or an old portable coldframe, a bottomless wooden box covered with sheet of plastic, or even a pane of glass mounted on stakes above the plants.

This covering is needed not because any frost danger, but because boisterous winter gales cause the petals to become bruised and bedraggled, while winter rain splanes particles of soil on the delicate flowers, ruining their chaste appearance and often infecting them with a fungus disease which causes them to turn brown when cut. The covering, too, tends fo "draw" the flowers, promoting a greater length

If it isn't practicable to give your heliebores any overhead protection in this way, the least you can do is to put down a surface mulch of peat moss or sawdust over the roots. By covering all bare soil in this way, the mud-splashing of the petals is prevented.

I know that quite a few local gardeners have become fed up with the Christmas Rose as a cut flower because the blooms fade and wilt so quickly after cutting. While some of this may be due to fungus infection from soil splashing, most of the trouble is caused by whisking these tough and hardy flowers too abruptly from their cold outdoor home into an overheated living

Almost all cut flowers live much longer when they are given a period of conditioning before they are incorporated into a floral arrangement, and the winter heliebores are even more demanding in this respect than the plants that bloom during the summer of stem and making them more suitable deeply in a container of water and the flowers stored in a really cool place. perhaps an unheated garage or tool shed, or some such place where the wind and rain. Let them drink their fill overnight, then go ahead and arrange them in a suitable bowl or vase, but keep this well clear of radiators or hot

I have written on previous occasions about the strange effect a wainut tree exerts upon certain other plants growing nearby. Tomatoes, for instance, turn sickly and may even die when attempted anywhere near a walnut, and for many years it was believed this was due to the competition of the tree roots.

Further research into this phenome-nom has been going ahead at the University of Michigan, and we know now that the tomato plants are actually poisoned by a substance called jugione, secreted by the wainut goots, with the effect extending well beyond the spread of the tree's branches. Other plants which have been found to have a decided antipathy to the walnut are forsythia, hemlock, tamarisk and rhodo-dendron.

All in the Family

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) - Jane Fonds is the most "mod" of all the moderns today. She is not only very friendly with and Annette Streyberg and children — but she persuaded Vadim to give her former fiance, Greek actor-director italnas (they went together for years), an acting job in one of the episodes of the Edgar Allan Poe film trilogy, in the segment directed by the Jolly Roger. It's almost all in the family. Louis Malle directed one of the segments with Bardot. Fellini is now doing his section with Terence Stamp

New "Graduate" star Dustin Hoffman will give half of his new-found fame to star in The Midnight Cowboy, about a homosexual hustler. Homos are terribly popular as a theme

To return to Yugoslavia the workmen are putting the finishing touches on the bungalow Burt Lancaster will live in during his filming of Castle Keep. It must be a bungalow as big as a castle because Burt's staff will live in it with him. The picture starts in January and word from behind the iron curtain is that Anne Bancroft will be Lancaster's co-star.

Marian Mell, the star of the aborted Mata Hari, refused to see the Garbo movie version, saying at the time, "I don't want to copy. I want to be myself." That's where Marisa made her big mistake. If she'd done even a half-imitation of Greta, who knows, the play might have run.

birth of their youngest child, adversity has been taking swipes at Mr. and Mrs. C and their family.

Ten years ago, their seventh child, a daughter, was born unable to swallow. Ever since then she has been undergoing surgery, and suffered relapses and infections.

Mrs. C and another daughter contacted polio six years ago, a blow that left Mrs. C confined to a wheelchair after months of total paralysis.

Doubts and worries have aggravated Mr. C's back disease, causing ulcers and nervous troubles as well, and resulting in more and more time lost from work,

For two years the family has relied entirely on social assistance payments, while a 15-year-old daughter has seen the cooking and heavy
